

Carbon Neutrality

Contributed by David D
Sunday, 27 May 2007
Last Updated Sunday, 27 May 2007

While not really an event, I am just putting this here for testing

FROM AIA GOVERNMENT ADVOCACY

AIA Leadership Pushes Congress for Carbon Neutrality:

AIA President RK Stewart, FAIA, and AIA President-elect Marshall E. Purnell, FAIA, testified last week before two committees of the U.S. House of Representatives to encourage the federal government to adopt the AIA's 2030 goals for federal buildings. Stewart and Purnell urged Congress to set energy reduction targets for new federal buildings and buildings undergoing major renovations. If the AIA-recommended policies are adopted, they said, all federal agencies will be required to reduce significantly the amount of fossil fuel-generated energy used in the next generation of federal buildings, resulting in carbon-neutral federal buildings by the year 2030.

(Photo of Marshal Purnell, courtesy of U.S. PIRG/Paul Carlson.)